JAMES R. KRENE'S GREAT COLT CAR-

Sothing Could Approach Him for the Cycle Handicap Boungague Taken the Venture Stakes and Rubteen the Codarhurst-Ted Stone Bides Three Winners-Aqueduct Sext.

Eight thousand persons went to Brighton Beach yesterday to give the closing day of the first meeting a brilliancy which even the rain could not dim. There were many handsomely gowned women in the boxes and on the stand, while scattered about the lawn or occupying prominent seats were some of the foremost turfmen of the country. Lillian Russell, who some persons insist is in Dakota looking for a divorce, beamed from a box in the front row. There were three stake events on the card-the Cyclone Handleap, for three-yearolds at five furlongs, which was won by James R. Keene's superb colt Voter, by Friar's Balsam, out of Mavourneen; the Venture, for two-year-olds, at five furlongs, which went to Hayman & Frank's colt Demagogue, by Magne-tizer, out of Decoy, and the Cedarhurst, for three-year-olds and upward, at one mile, to be ridden by gentlemen riders, which was won by George E. Smith's six-year-old horse Rubicon by imported Rayon d'Or out of Lily R., with Foxhall P. Keene in the saddle, Voter's performance puts all the others in total eclipse. This surprisingly fleet colt picked up 132 pounds, and, playing with his field, won in a romp over a heavy and muddy track in 1:034. None of his competitors could hurry him, and when Sloan piloted him past the winning post the colt's mouth was open and his head was pulled half way round to his shoulder. There is, apparently, no horse in training to-day outside of Clifford that is capable of giving Voter a race at five or six furlongs at anything like equal weight. His owner was present to see him win yesterday. Demagogue's victory was rather one-sided, too, as Penn spened up a gap at the start and never let any of his field approach him. The Cedar-hurst Stake was simply a big gallop for Rubion. The same horse also won the Hempstead Stake on the opening day. As Mr. Keene rode he horse on both occasions, he will receive a cup valued at $250. The races for gentlemen riders the horse on both occasions, he will receive a cup valued at $250. The races for gentlemen riders this year have not been satisfactory from a racing standpoint, as Mr. Keene has won them all, save the Stirrup Cup at Concy Island. There has been nothing capable of making Rubicon stretch his neck, and the mile in 1:334 yesterday shows what a poor return the Brighton Heach Racing Association got for its $1,000. Itodiman B., the second horse, is not worth the $200 which rewarded his efforts. When Mr. Sass fromed the conditions for these races he hoped and had every reason to believe that good fields with many of the best gentlemen riders in the saddle would appear, but Mr. Keene has been monarch of all he surveyed. He is a good forseman, and it is a pity that there are not home others of his calibre in the lists. The public would enjoy thoroughly a race for blood with the gentlemen pockeys in the saddle.

There were eight starters for the Cyclone Handicap, and Voter was an odde-on favorite, Casseopla ranking next in favor, with 5 to 1 offered against his chances. Lady Mitchell was 8 and Cleonhus 10 to 1, while very long odds could be had against any of the other starters. The field got away well together, all but Cleonhus being bunched nicely, when the flag fell, but Perkins rushed Billail out into the daylight. Sloan was not going to permit Daly's gedling to get too far away, however, and the horses had not gone fifty yards before Voter's head, neck and shoulders appeared in advance of the struggling ruck. Gradually Voter drew up until his nose was at Billail's tall, and there he remained until straightened away for home. There was a quickening of the strong, powerful stride and Voter shot to the front and cantered home the handiest of winners. Billail, driven out by Cleophus, was second, while Fireside, who had participated in the opening dash, securing third money, was only a head behind the Dwyer filly. Cleophus ran a grand race and should receive high praise, as she had to run round her field in the upper turn richly. The race was worth $1,500 to the winner.

Demagogue at even money and Nosey at 7 to 5 came in for nearly all of the play in the Venture Stake, very few persons asking for Fixed tar or Junior. When the flag fell Penn shot Demagogue out into the lead, and the brown coit made a show of his field, winning as he pleased by three lengths. Nosey, very slow to begin and ten lengths behind Demagogue at one time, lost second money to Fixed Star by a scant head. The other contestant, Junior, can run fast for three furlongs and is then done.

The race for the Cedarhurst can be told in a very few words. Rubleon was a prohibitive favorite. He waited on Romman B, for six furlongs and then trotted home. Nanki Pooh was a poor third.

Some day the talent will become weary of rery few words. Rubicon was a prohibitive favorite. He waited on Rodman B. for six furiougs and then trotted home. Nanki Pooh was a poor third.

Some day the talent will become weary of making Concord favorite. He isn't out of the insiden class yet, although he has made several well-defined efforts at it. Yesterday, in the opening dash at live furlongs, was his very latest essay. He was at 7 to 5, and had a rather poor lot to beat. Klepper and Fireside were dual second choices at 3 to 1.

Littlefield rode Klepper, and, being fortunate enough to get clear of his field at the start, won, with something to spare. The struggle for the place was warm. Concord getting up in the last stride and defeating Fireside. There was quite a tip out on Athy, but it didn't materialize.

Michael III., with Tod Sloan up, looked very tempting for the Owners' Handicap, for two-year-olds, at six furlongs. It was edds on, and good betting at that, in the estimation of the talent, for it was a certainty that Tommy Shannon, Stanhope, Corobley, and Bennett would be outgeneralled by Sloan at the nost and during the race. Sloan got off in front with Michael III. and stayed there all the way home, winning hands down. Sly Fox had second place socure when Shannon let him swerve toward the inner rail, and Bennett, on Mount d'Or, got up in time to nail the son of Sliver Fox by a head.

Fremier at odds on gave Sloan his second winning mount. The distance was one mile and a sixteenth and Jinmy McLaughlin's Breadwinner was a warm favorite. Cassette made the running to the stretch, where Fremier came away. Cassette beat Miss Prim for second money after a spirited drive. Passover was last all the way and fought Sims throughout, switching his tail and propping himself every time he was struck with the whip.

Withit was fined $25 for misbehavior at the post in the fifth race.

Sloan rode three straight winners in Michael III., Premier, and Voter.

The Queens County Jockey Club management and the Metropolitan Turf Association had a final conference yes

MOBE SPEED BY THE ELLIDE. Another Wonderful Effort by the Little Steam

Yacht. E. Burgess Warren's wonderful little steam yacht Ellide made a semi-official trial over the measured mile off Irvington on the Hudson River yesterday afternoon, and under favorable weather conditions was timed as follows: With the tide, which was making flood, 1 minute 43 3-5 seconds; against the tide and a strong breeze, 1 minute 58 4-5 seconds.

hogany" cast off her moorings at Ayer's ship the broad expanse of water toward the starting

Making a wide detour below the Ardsley Club house, Capt. C. D. Packard came up on the course and rang the "jingle," and the Ellide jumped forward as she felt the increased power. Faster and faster she flew along, and it seemed that never before had she travelled at such a terrific pace. The throttle was pulled open wider, the blower was started, and the sheets of spray that rose on either side half hid the shores, while the Ellide, with her forefoot now far out of Ellide, with her forefoot now far out of the water, rushed past the range and the trial was begun. With the throttle wide open ane dashed across the finish line, the time of the trial being 1 minute 43 3-5 seconds by the watch held by Mr. Heilbron, while timepleces in the hands of Lieut, Davis and Francis Magoun registered 1 minute 44 seconds.

The second run was make against a strong tide,
while the force of the wind dashed green water over her starboard bow and drenched every one in the boat as soon as top speed was reached.
She, however, covered the distance in 1 minute

She, however, covered the distance in 1 minute 58 4-5 seconds. Commander Barnette, after the race, stated that in his opinion the result proved that she would, under favorable circumstances, cover the distance in time equal to forty miles an hour.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—The feature of the ace meet of the Pennsylvania Bicycle Club this afternoon, at the Tioga track, was to have been the match race between Aker, Starbuck and Church. Church won in two straight heats, the conditions being two out of three heats, with Starbuck second in both ases and Aker last. Johnny Johnson and Fred Titus gave exhibition rides. Titus was paced by two triplets. He had no trouble in keeping the triplet's rear wheel and finishing in 2 minutes 10 2-5 seconds. Johnson went half a mile paced, covering the distance in 57 4-5 seconds. and leading the triplet home in a rattling finish by a length. The track was in very poor conon a length. The trace was in very poor condition, owing to the heavy rains of the week, and good time was impossible. It was slippery, too, and several spills occurred, in one of which all the stars fell and left the race to a rank outsider. The best race of the day was the one-third-of-amile handleap, won by Joe Clift of this city. The summaries:

One-Mile Novice—Won by J. T. Cattell, V. E. Bond second, G. J. Manning third. Time, 3 minutes 9 2-5 seconds.

One-Mile Interclub Championship—Won by Joe Clift, John Zimmerman second, Samuel Moore third. Time, 3 minutes $3.2-5 seconds.

DILEMMA A WINNER.

Shelter Island Yacht Club Regatta Satisd in a High Wind and Rough Son.

SHELTER ISLAND, July 24.—To-day was "ladies' day" at the Shelter Island Yacht Club, and each yacht competing in the regatta had to carry at least one woman. There was a high wind and a rough sea, and the rules were not very strictly adhered to. As a matter of fact, only three of the yachts, the Lynx, Cuidao, and Oseonds, carried women at all.

There were three events-for sloops, class D, for catboats, and for sloops, class F. In the Osconda scored, and in the third the Nueva was unopposed. In the catboat race the Vinata fouled at the clubhouse station and withdrew, while the Cuidao, in the same race, was interfered with by J. A. Coaster of the sloop New Then, which was not racing, and withdrew.

BIG CARD AT PLEETWOOD. Sany Monte and Some Patrly Good Spart You

A large crowd was at Fleetwood yesterday to witness the final day's racing of the July meeting. Barring the interminable length of the contests and the tedious scoring, the day's sport was a most satisfactory one.

The unfinished 2:24 trot and 2:12 pace, which were carried over from Friday after two heats in the former and one in the latter had been disposed of, were first taken up. In the trotting class the favorite, Bright Heart, after getting in a heat gave up the struggle, and Red Wilton, who had the first heat to his credit, outstayed the field, winning the next two heats without much of a battle. In the final heat of this race the sulkies of Bright Heart and Holly Woodnut became locked, and Thompson, the driver of Bright Heart, was thrown. He was quickly on als feet, however, still holding his horse, which Bright Heart, was thrown. He was quickly on his feet, however, still holding his horae, which had come to a standstill, and, mounting, drove out the heat. Aside from a slight strain. Thompson escaped injury.

In the 2:12 pace the old roan gelding B. B., favorits for the race, finally struck his clip in the third heat, and thereafter easily disposed of his field.

The clever four-year-old Ed Lock in the 2:18 trot practically repeated his performance of June last at the Fleetwood spring meeting, when, after letting the balance of the field struggle along until thoroughly wearled out, he came on as fresh as if it were but the first heat and walked off with the money, none of his leg-weary field being able to withstand his speedy brushes down the stretch. Ed Lock has sold by auction just prior to this race for $2,050, his purchaser being ex-Alderman Henry Hughes. He will probably remain in charge of his present driver, Ed Lockwood.

In the 2:19 pace Neil Alcyoner was favorite and captured the first two heats rather handliy, taking a record of 2:172, He also won the third heat, beating Gothonet out a longth. The judges, however, did not like the lethargic drive which Arthur made and "lifted" him, declaring it "no heat." Thompson, who was substituted for Arthur, could do nothing with the horse and he was finally drawn. The decision, while apparently justified, was an expensive one to the owner of Neil Alcyoner, for he was never able to get to the front again, Princess M, going to the front and stepping away from a very tirred field in the next three heats. In the second heat of the 2:19 pace the hoppies caree very near causing another catastrophe, Little Barefoot being thrown by them while well up in front. Whelley, her driver, was pitched out on his head, and Maguire, who was close behind with Marie Wellington, went right over the fallen horse and sulky. By good fortune neithor driver was seriously injured, both escaping with a few bruises (accewood) 1 4 4 1 1 hard to break when it is most desired to have them broken.

To-day's time was not remarkable in any of the trials of speed. John R. Gentry's effort to beat Johnston's record of 2:064, made to the high-wheel sulky at Chicago in 1884, was a failure. The best he could do was 2:064, The attempt of Marion Mills, the "Guideless Wonder," to lower her record of 2:042 also failed, her time being 2:114. There was no open betting at the track, as the Washington Park Club would not sanction a violation of the State law, but plenty of side bets were made.

The 2:11 trot did not excite great interest, as the spectators had come to see the stars. From the moment that Star Pointer started in the first heat it was apparent that there was no chance for the other horses. Agan's driver, seeing that he had no show for any share of the purse, pulled his horse up before reaching the half-mile post. Summaries:

NERVOUS RACE HORSES.

THE EQUINE FAMILY VERY MUCH LIKE THE HUMAN KIND.

Pimerous Characteristics Are Sometimes In-herites—Methods of Some Morsemen Re-sponsible for Others—Morses know When They Are Being Prepared for a Contest. The finding of the stewards of the Jockey Club in the case of The Friar, the winner of the Realization Stakes, has caused many persons who know little about race horses to express astonishment that horses should possess such things as nerves, and that they should be governed by much the same conditions as human beings. Men who are familiar with the turf know that there are as many variations of temperament in the equine as in the human family, and that the same treatment will rarely serve for any two horses.

The strong claim which Trainer Walden advanced for The Friar's vagaries of form, which undoubtedly saved him from punishment at the hands of the racing powers, was the extreme nervousness of the son of Friar's Bal-sam. Mr. Walden said in his testimony that The Friar was one of the most nervous horses he had ever seen on a race track, and that the colt unquestionably inherited the characteristic from his dam, the Longfellow mare Lizzie Baker. In speaking of Lizzie Baker in a state ment issued to the press and the public, the yous thoroughbred be had ever handled. He on the eve of a contest that she would lose en tirely the control of her hind parts and would drag her legs helplessly after her. Much of her disposition, he argued, had passed to The Friar.

It is a well-known fact that a great many of the most prominent performers on the turf know when they are going to be raced, and they will do nothing but pace about in their stalls, break out into sweats, and betray all of the neryous anxiety which a schoolboy entering in his first race shows. He is all trembling as he stands at the mark waiting for the piatol. Every nerve is vibrating in spite of the firmly set teeth and the clenched hands. It takes a season or two to overcome this, and some of our best athletes never overcome it. Only men of Malcolin W. Ford's type are steady on the mark, and it's only the cool-headed, phiegmatic mombers of the horse family that go into a conest without any tremblings or quakings.

Old campaigners can tell by the manner in which they are being handled when they are to race, and on the eve of the battle many of them will refuse their food. The sight of a silken jacket is enough to set some of them trembling, and the sound of the band or a field of horses in motion is a common cause of nervous-ness in thoroughbreds. At the post they are all eagerness to be away and some of them are endowed with almost human intelligence. They realize when they have the best or the worst of a break as quickly and offtimes quicker than their riders. The writer observed this pe-culiarity in a number of instances that winter at New Orieans, where an electric machine was used to start the horses. Among them was a Tex-

Vaquero III. Again a Winner.

NEWPORT, July 24 .- The Vaquero III., handled by H. B. Duryea, won the race to-day of the thirty-footers, which was sailed in a severe thunderstorm. The start was made at 3:06 in a fair southwest wind, but before the race was over it became squaily. The Hora was disabled and withdrew.

She was the first to cross the line, but the Dorothy was in the lead at the turn at Dyer's Island. On the beat home the Vaquero III, pointed the best and won by 55 seconds. Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Jr., sailed with J. A. Stillman in the Wa Wa. Summary follows:

NO CHANCE TO DROWN HERSELF.

Mrs. Hamilton Complained That There Were Too Many People Around the Harlem More. Yesterday morning a woman about 35 years old, who said her name was Louise Hamilton, called Park Boatman Edward Bruley over to the edge of the Harlem Mere and confided to him that she had waited there for some time for an opportunity to commit suicide,

"I'm tired of the struggle to live, and I would have jumped into the lake, but so many people have been here that I could not get the chance, have been here that I could not get the chance. Some one would have been sure to pull me out, and I did not want to make any mistake when I made the attempt," she told him.

Bruley continued the conversation to discover if she was insune. She told him that she was a dressmaker living on Eighth avenue, but refused to give the number. She said she had had trouble with her family and was tired of life generally. She added that she was a widow and that she had taken a glass of liquor to nerve her up to the point of taking her life. Bruley called Policeman Nicholson, who took the woman to the Harlem Police Court.

In court she professed penitence and said she would not make any attempt on her life. She was discharged.

TRIED MURDER AND SUICIDE Foreman Tuck of a Lynn Shoe Factory Tries to Murder a Girl Who Had Left Work. LYNN, Mass., July 24.-John Tuck, foreman of the stitching room in Atwell's shoe factory on Washington street, tried to kill Grace McMahon, aged 19, this afternoon in the shop, and when she escaped he stabled himself three times with a shocknife. He is now in the hospital and the chances of his recovery are fair. The girl formerly worked in Tuck's department, but left about three weeks ago. He met her on but left about three weeks ago. He met her on the street this afternoon and she went with him into the shop. Upon her refusal to come back to work for him Tuck exclaimed:

"Then here's where we both die!"

He tried to shoot the girl first, but the revolver would not go off, so he struck her on the forehead with a stick, cutting a long gash. She ran down stairs and he chased her, striking her on the back of the head with the but of the revolver. She jumped through a window and escaped. He went back upstairs and stabbed himself over the heart. Tuck is 64 years old and has a wife and daughter.

WARNER WANTED TO DIE. Jersey City Boys, a Policeman, and a Stomach Pump Prevent a Suicide.

Bernard Warner, 23 years old, of 266 Terhune avenue, Jersey City, went to an open lot on Westside avenue yesterday, took poison, and Westside avenue yesterday, took poison, and awaited death. Some boys who saw him notified a polleeman. Warner beeged the polleeman to let him die. He said he took the poison because his wife quarrelled with him and no longer loved him. The polleeman hurried Warner to the City Hospital, where he was relieved of the poison by means of a stomach pump. Warner kept a barber shop in Greenwich street, this city, about two years ago, but failed when others who started in business near him cut the rates.

Attempted Suicide Because Her Husband Had

A woman, 28 years old, whose name the police say is Annie J. Pyne, but which Otto Schmidt of 208 East Thirty-second street, where she lived with her husband in a furnished room, said was Clark, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by Clark, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by turning on a gas jet.

Mrs. Schmidt said that Mrs. Clark had told her that her husband had descried her fo go to the Klondike mines, and it was thought this might have been the cause of the attempted suicide. Mrs. Clark was taken to Bellevue Hos-pital, where it was said she had a good chance of recovery.

The body of Max Prinz, an insurance agent, several days ago, was found in the East River at the foot of Amity street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning. Prinz was 35 years old and lived at 229A Vernon avenue. His friends say they know of no reason why he should commit suicide. They think that he fell overboard from a ferryboat while on his way from this city to Brooklyn.

BOSTON'S NEW GUNS.

Ten of the 10-Inch Type Arrive for Mounting on the Harber. Roston, July 24.-The new and powerful 10inch guns have arrived after a successful test at the Sandy Hook proving ground, and the harbor is being placed in a state of defence that will render it well-nigh impregnable against the attacks of the largest ironclads affoat.

There are seven of these new guns for Long Island head and three for Fort Warren on George's Island. The guns will be mounted on Buffington-Crozier disappearing carriages, hich were shipped from the Watertown hich were shipped from the Watertown arsenal this week.

For many years the harbor has not had defences that would be adequate in case of war, for the armament has been long out of date. Fort Warren is really the key to the harbor defence as it is nearest the harbor mouth. It was built in 1850, and aithough it is equipped with cannon they are not of a modern type. Fort Independence on Castle Island is very ornamental, but would be of little use in war. Fort Winthrop on Governor's Island, only a mile from the city water front, although said to be the strongest fortress in the harbor, is too antiquated to stand long under the fire of the guns carried by big ironclads of to-day.

The battery at Long Island head, nearly 100 feet above the water and commanding a fine view of the harbor and all its approaches, is, in one sense, a new one, and because of its high position probably the most valuable defence hereabout to-day. The arrival of the guns, among the most powerful used in this country, marks a long advance in the remodelling of this country's harbor defences, although the big mortar batteries at Winthrop, put in two or three years ago, was the first step toward modern equipment. Eventually the Government intends to place a powerful battery on Deer Island, directly across the channel from Long Island, and then the chances will be small of any war vessel getting near enough to do much harm to the city.

A New Tener to Be Heard at Madison Square

A change will be made to-night in the usual form of the programme at the Madison Square Garden, when, in addition to the regular orchestral concert, a new tenor will be heard there. This is the first time that a vocalist has appeared at these concerts. He is Thomas McQueen, and he will sing the "Cujus Animam" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and "Di Quella Pira" from "Il Trovatore."

The orchestral selections will include works by Hach, Liszt, Wagner, Schumann, Brahms, Larsen, Flotow, and Sullivan.

A Child Run Over and Killed. RACING YACHTS COLLIDE.

NOROTA CRASHES INTO DOROTHY

board and Narrowly Escapes Drowning— The Vencedor Adds to Her Chapter of Accidents - Colonta and Acushia Unopposed. Larchmont race week ended yesterday with a serious accident in which one of the competing yachts was lost, while a member of her Corinthian crew was only saved from drowning after the utmost difficulty. The trouble occurred near the southwest stakeboat at the end of the first round of the race and the yacht that was wrecked was the 19-foot catboat Dorothy, owned by John E. Sanborn, She collided with D. B. Burnham's Norota, and the smaller boat was capsized and her bow torn away. A moment later her most went by the board, carrying the big mainsail with it, while her crew were struggling in the water. The boats were close hauled, beating up from Matinicock Point, Norota on the starboard tack and the smaller craft on the port tack. Neither erew saw the other boat until they came togother. Norota's bowsprit was across the bow of the Dorothy. A collision was unavoidable, and just as the boats came together Vice-Commodore Henry E. James of the Huguenot Yachs

Club, who was one of the crew of the catboat, jumped to the deck of the black sloop, Dorothy's owner, John E. Sanborn, and Charles Cortland Wright, who made up the rest of the crew, were too late, and as the Dorothy heeled over from the force of the blow were thrown into the water. Sanborn at once struck out for the boat, but Wright, who could not swim, floundered about, calling for help and swallow-the boat, but Wright, who could not swim, foundered about, calling for help and swallowing water by the bucketfel.

The Regatia Committee's steamer got under way and came quickly to the spot, and a life preserver was thrown to the drowning man. It inckily fell within reach and he was pulled aboard the time. The yacht was towed to the southwest stakeboat, where she sank, her mash having previously floated away.

Ill luck still followed former Commodore Offilig's yacht Vencedor. She again carried away her spreader, and Syce was a victor by the broad margin of 19 minutes 36 seconds.

The wind was blowing hard from the west-northwest when the regatta committee arrived at the starting line and sounded the preparatory whistle. At 11:40:00 Colonia was sent away alone in the schooner class, the Emerala's owner not wishing for another wind-jamming match with the fast sailing flagship of the Larchmont Club. Five minutes later Syce and Neucedor slipped over the line, which has named boat to windward and Syceluffing out under her stern. Hoyt's sloop, he wever, could not weather the Vencedor, and she eventually went through her lee, and, passing her at 12:13:00, led at the easterly mark. Noron was started at 11:45:00 and Acushia at 11:50:00, both having sailovers in their respective classes. The yawls were next, and Fidelio, which had been keeping close to the line, dashed across with the whistle, the big Pawnee being close up on her port quarter. The next division crossed as follows: Musme, with Kite up to her weather shrouds; Carolina and Goblin, while the smaller sloops, yawls and catboats wens over at five-minute intervals.

The courses were the same as were sailed by the various classes throughout the week, and as the end of the first round the following times were taken:

Houri, 1:00:00; Quantuck, 1:12:08; Shark, 1:17:10; Kite, 1:19:28; Pawnee 1:48:01. Acushia, 1:59:28; Jester, 1:31:47; Grace, 1:34:10; Norota, 1:48:24; Alice, 1:39:28; Pawnee, 1:49:01; Acushia, 1:59:29; Jester, 1:34:10; Wille D., 2:16:18; Kite, 2:97:21

Vencedor had carried away her spreader son after rounding the eastern mark, but was sailed pluckly throughout, although she, of course, had no chance to win.

The second round brought few changes in the positions of the competing rachts, as they were timed at the finish as follows: Houri, 2:20:55; Quantuck, 2:24:45; Shark, 2:28:14; Dasoria, 2:20:45; Kit, 2:20:45; Win or Lose, 2:45:56; Grace, 2:54:18; Jester, 2:55:41; Syee, 2:57:49; Coloria, 3:18:109; Vencedor, 2:20:18; Alte, 3:25:22; Zabra, 3:73:52; Norota, 3:24:11; Minnetonka, 3:26:27; Carolina, 3:29:25; Muame, 3:39:25; Acushia, 3:46:58; Gobin, 4:10:36.

Murphy Bents Hoey for the Takanasses Cup After a Tie.

LONG BRANCH, July 24.-Fred Hoey and Edgar Gibbs Murphy did some excellent shooting before the Hollywood traps this afternoon. The latter shot at 29 birds, killing all but one. Hoey grassed 25 out of 28, making many clever kills and tieing Murphy for cup honors. In the Takanassee Cup, the main event, Hoey and Murphy tied with 15 kills. They agreed to divide the purse, amounting to $76.60, and shoot the tie off in the ten-bird event to decide the bets. Hoey's fifth bird, a driving left quarterer, got away. Murphy followed with a kill, winning the cup. "Clancy" did some fine work at the traps. He took part in both the cup and ten-bird events, grassing every bird. His sixth bird in the cup event fell dead out by a few feet. Ballard finished with 13 in the cup event. Daly, who shot in poor form, finished with 11. Murphy was the favorite for cup honors, with Hoey a close second. The birds were not up to the standard. A strong southwest wind aided them considerably in making their flight.
